

Test Analysis

This is a way for you to earn back half the points you missed on the test/quiz. For each problem you missed, you must do all three of the following steps. If done satisfactorily, half of the points missed on that problem will be added to your grade as extra credit.

- a. Completely revise the question showing all necessary steps.
- b. In words, describe the error(s) made. Also, identify the error as conceptual, procedural, or computational.

Conceptual-didn't know how to do the question; didn't understand the "concept" of what it was asking

Procedural-didn't follow the correct procedure in solving; knew what you were supposed to do but took a wrong step along the way

Computational-a small mistake--left off a label; left behind a negative sign; added wrong; etc.

- c. In words, describe the correct way to do the question.

I expect you to use complete sentences, correct grammar, and correct spelling. Don't forget to staple the test to the test analysis!
